The Ruhr-University Bochum is one of Germany’s leading research universities and a reform-oriented campus university, which uniquely offers the entire range of the major fields of science in one single place. The dynamic interaction of subjects and subject cultures offers researchers and students alike special opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration.

The University Hospitals of the Ruhr-University Bochum (UK-RUB) are hospitals and specialised medical facilities in the area of Bochum, Herne and Ostwestfalen-Lippe that cooperate with the Ruhr-University. The UK-RUB stands for top-quality medical care and excellent research and teaching in the field of university medicine.

The Marien Hospital Herne, University Hospital of the Ruhr-University Bochum, Department of Urology (Director: Univ. Professor Dr. med. Joachim Noldus) is seeking to fill the following position by the earliest possible date:

Professorship (pay grade W2) for Translational Uro-Oncology (m/f/o)

The professorship is associated with the management of the Department of Translational Uro-Oncology in the Department of Urology. The ideal candidate is a specialist in urology with a strong scientific profile in urological oncology with special emphasis on molecular biological and translational techniques in oncology, particularly in urothelial carcinoma. The successful candidate is expected to integrate him- or herself into the faculty’s research priorities, especially oncology and protein sciences, cooperate with the RUCCC (Ruhr-University Comprehensive Cancer Centre, UK-RUB) and participate in the overall teaching in the integrated reformed curriculum of the faculty in urology within the modular teaching concept.

Furthermore, the Professorship for Translational Uro-Oncology is integrated into the structure of the Department of Urology. At the same time, the successful appointee will also hold the post of a senior physician in the Department of Urology.

You must have a positive appraisal as a junior professor, hold a postdoctoral lecturing qualification or equivalent academic achievements, have an aptitude for teaching and be willing to participate in academic self-administration.

The following are also required:

- the willingness to engage in interdisciplinary scientific work
- the willingness and ability to attract third-party funded research projects
- the management of a scientific working group

The appointment procedure is carried out by the Ruhr-University Bochum in agreement with the St. Elisabeth Hospital Group in Rhine-Ruhr as the responsible body Marien Hospital Herne, University Hospital of the Ruhr-University Bochum. Employment will be on the basis of a private law employment contract based on the collective agreement of the Marburger Bund for doctors at university hospitals.
Secondary employment and the right to invoice private patients (Liquidationsrecht) are granted by special agreement. Affiliation with the university will be in accordance with Article 9 (2) HG NRW (Higher Education Act of the State of NRW).

The Marien Hospital Herne, University Hospital of the Ruhr-University Bochum belongs to the St. Elisabeth Hospital Group in Rhine-Ruhr. It has a total of five hospitals that treat more than 300,000 outpatients and inpatients per year in over 1,600 beds. The Department of Urology is not only of great importance for the Ruhr-University Bochum, but also of great significance to the facilities of the St. Elisabeth Hospital Group, which combines science and cutting-edge medicine with successful treatment that complies with the quality of national and international standards. To this end, the Group invests its entire economic surplus in medical research and innovations, medical technology, employee qualifications, construction and renovation measures and additional jobs. The St. Elisabeth Hospital Group employs more than 5,100 people.

St. Elisabeth Hospital Group and the Ruhr-University Bochum wish to promote the careers of women in fields in which they have been underrepresented, and would thus welcome applications from women. Applications from suitable candidates with severe disabilities and other applicants with equal legal status (gleichgestellt) are also welcome.
